MRS. W. D. MATHESON received a letter from her husband, now at Dawson, last week. Mr. Matheson and his son were well. He mentioned the number of other men from Edmonton all well. Some of the names were: Lee, McNeill, Taylor, Robertson, Shand, Graham, and others. Mr. Matheson (had secured a claim on Sulphur Creek and had several months provisions ahead. Mr. Ogilvie had closed the post office for six days in order to get it straightened out. But when it did open the service was very satisfactory.

N. F. DAVIN, M. P., and Mrs. Davin arrived on Monday's train from Regina. This is Mr. Davin's first visit to Edmonton and he was struck by the friendly character of the place. He is at present on a tour of the west in the interests of conservative re-organization. He visited South Edmonton and St. Albert in that interest, and on his return south, visited Calgary, Banff and MacLeod. On Monday night he met the conservative association, on Tuesday night was given a banquet, and on Wednesday night lectured in Robertson Hall on "The House of Commons as I knew it." Mr. and Mrs. Davin went south on Thursday.

SOUTH Edmonton recently received notice from Regina that on Nov. 20th, it would be declared incorporated as a village. On Tuesday evening a large public meeting was held at which a resolution was passed unanimously protesting against village incorporation. A protest to the same effect was signed to be sent to Regina. A preference was expressed by some of those present for town incorporation. A. C. Rutherford was chairman. The first meeting was dissolved and another meeting organized at which an expression was made in favor of town incorporation. The following committee was appointed: Messrs. Ritchie, Rutherford, Davis and McLaren.

THE Plaindealer occupies a column of its editorial space in showing its disinclination to accept the BULLETIN's friendly recommendation of reason over prejudice, and winds up by intimating that it cannot account for the course of the BULLETIN in the recent contest. There are lots of things the Plaindealer cannot account for, but there are nevertheless all right. The reason was that the BULLETIN did not believe the country would be badly served whether Mr. Rutherford or Mr. McCauley were elected. And the Plaindealer did not believe that it would either. Hence its attempt to prejudice Mr. McCauley on personal rather than on public grounds, which attempt gained Mr. McCauley many more votes than it lost him.

THE annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Society was held in the council chamber on Monday evening last when reorganization was effected and officers elected for the ensuing year. A resolution of condolence was passed expressing the sympathy of the society towards one of their oldest members, Mr. Alex. Taylor, in his recent sad bereavement. Arrangements were made for the celebration of St. Andrew's day by a supper to be given in the Queen's Hotel on the 30th inst. It is to be hoped that all members and their friends will avail themselves of this national reunion of the sons of the heather. The officers elected were: President, G. J. Kimmerd; 1st vice, W. S. Edmiston; 2nd vice, W. Johnstone Walker; sec. treas., Thos. Hourston; managing committee: G. W. Gardner, N. D. Jackson, T. G. Lander, W. McKay, Hugh McKay; chaplain, Rev. D. G. McQueen; standard bearer, Archie Cameron; bard, James Johnstone.

UNDER the postal regulations any package mailed as containing printed matter only, goes at a certain low rate. If it contains any writing whatever the rate is much higher. People who collect soap wrappers for prizes, in mailing these wrappers to the factory at the printed matter rate, frequently enclose some written communication. This renders the whole parcel liable under the rate for written matter. The postal authorities have frequently no means of identifying the senders of the parcels, they finally go to a dead letter office, and there is a row between the soap factory people and the collectors of wrappers. When the postal regulations say printed matter only that is what they mean.

THE OVERLAND ROUTE.

The successful outcome of Insp. Moody's somewhat lengthy trip to the Pelly river by land from Edmonton is of great importance to the whole of Canada, and particularly to this western part of the Territories. The events of the past twelve months have demonstrated that the Klondike is a permanent camp—so far as a placer camp can be permanent—and that it is the richest in the world at the present time. They have also demonstrated that there are scattered widely, on and amongst the various branches of the Yukon, other deposits than those of the Klondike, and of possibly in the aggregate, greater value. While the means of communication with the Klondike itself have been improved during the past summer to such an extent as to render the almost impracticable trip of last year a mere pleasure excursion, and while as a result there has been much successful prospecting along this route and branching from it for short distances at several points, there yet remains the vast region on the upper waters of the Yukon outside the Lewes and Hootalinqua, which is for practicable purposes as yet inaccessible and must remain so unless some other route than that from the coast is opened to prospectors. The coast route necessarily means that transport from the trunk line of that route must be by boat up stream on the Pelly and Stewart, and their numerous tributaries, and must stop where boat navigation ends. Whereas it is a well established fact that the strikes are made on the gulches, and small streams, in most cases far above where they can be reached by boat; as witness the case of the so-called Klondike diggings, which are not on the Klondike at all, but on its tributary creeks and small gulches emptying into them. The great necessity for the prospecting of by far the greater part—and what may be expected to be the most valuable part—of the Yukon region is access by horses. This is now established as practicable. As also the possibility of supplying the whole Yukon with beef from cattle driven in from the prairies. The government have done well to send this expedition through. It is a matter of the utmost interest to the Territories and to the development of the Yukon that the exploration made should be followed up by the improvement of the trail, during the coming season.

THE MOODY EXPEDITION.

Baptiste Pepin, of St. Albert, head packer on the Moody expedition, returned on Monday's train from his long trip to the Yukon by the overland route.

The expedition left Edmonton on Sept. 4th, of last year. The members were Insp. Moody, in command; F. D. Lafferty and H. S. Tobin, engineers, Constable Fitzgerald, and R. Hardisty, and B. Pepin, packers. Mr. Hardisty returned last fall from Fort St. John. Mr. Tobin remained at Fort Selkirk. Messrs. Moody, Lafferty, Fitzgerald and Pepin reached Calgary on Sunday night last.

The party reached the Pelly River at the site of Pelly Banks, H. B. post, the objective point of the overland trail, about October 1st. The horses were sent back from there with the guide to Sylvester's Landing to winter. The party bought a canvas canoe and started down the Pelly river. Ice began to run at the same time so that their trip down the river to Fort Selkirk was one of very considerable hardship and adventure. Finding the canoe too small they made a raft. Sometimes they were compelled to portage past ice jams. At last when about thirty miles from Selkirk they ran into a jam so extensive as to render portaging the canoe and supplies impossible. They then cached the supplies and travelled to Fort Selkirk on foot, packing their food and bedding. They were about 10 days getting down the Pelly.

At Selkirk they found the Lewes open and the steamers still running. All but Tobin, took the out bound steamer to White Horse. The connecting steamer was not on hand and Moody and Pepin came on to the foot of Marsh lake in a canoe. They met the steamer on their way down to White Horse. She picked up Lafferty and Fitzgerald there, and coming back brought the whole party to Lake Bennett. The White pass railway is now completed to the summit, twenty miles from Lake Bennett, and many men are still at work on construction. Railway to Skagway, steamer to Vancouver and rail home completed the trip.

At Houtle river, a tributary of the Pelly, which enters from the south some 20 or 30 miles below the site of Pelly banks post, three prospectors were met who had come up from Fort Selkirk. They claimed to have good prospects. All the way down the Pelly many boats were seen along the banks showing that there were many prospectors along the river. On the way out Mr. Pepin saw a good many men who had made money in the Klondike, but all had made it out of selling rather than out of working claims. There was great excitement at the terminus of the White pass railway and at Skagway over the Atlin lake gold fields.

The party reached Sylvester's Landing, on Dease river, about Sept. 1st. They were the first party on the trail. They remained five days, and during that time prospectors having about 500 pack horses came in. Most of them intended to winter in that vicinity as it is a good place for horses, and await the results of the efforts of the police party to reach Pelly river with horses. Mr. Pepin afterwards heard from a man who had come out from Sylvester's by way of Wrangell, that prospectors with about forty horses had followed their party.

From Sylvester's Landing to the Liard at the mouth of Dease river occupied six days. This was about the best travelling and the best horses fed on the whole route. The Dease which flows northward to the Liard, was crossed to its west side at Sylvester's Landing. A crossing was made to the east side, about 25 miles below the Landing, and again to the west side at the mouth of Blue river. The Liard was crossed at the mouth of the Dease and was followed up on its east or north side to a point above the junction of the Frances with the Liard. The travelling from the mouth of the Dease to Frances lake was fairly good, but there was no trail, and a great deal of cutting had to be done. When Frances lake was reached, from there to the entrance of Finlayson river, the beach of the lake was followed. From Frances lake to the Pelly the country was wooded, but there was abundant feed for horses, as there was all the way from Sylvester's Landing. There was not much hay to be seen, however.

At Frances lake were a large number of prospectors who had come, some of them by trail from Ashcroft to Telegraph Creek, and thence to Dease lake, and others by the Stikine route. From Dease lake they had built boats and gone down Dease river and up the Frances intending to winter at Frances lake and pull across to Pelly river during the winter. It was from one of these parties that Insp. Moody bought the canoe which he took down the Pelly.

The trail from Fort Graham lay up the Findlay, and then up its north fork, across a low divide to the head waters of Black river. Thence down Black river to the Forks of that river where there was an abandoned H. B. outpost. The trail crossed the west branch of Black river, and leaving that river took westward over the divide to the Dease. The Black river seemed to offer good prospects for gold, but the members of the party did not have time to prospect, and they did not know what the parties who followed would do.

The great difficulty the party had to face on the way from Fort Graham was the necessity of cutting timber to let the pack horses through, as horses had never been used over the trails before. Some days they could only make two or three miles. In actual travel the party was only 90 days from St. John to Pelly river. Now that so many parties have been over the trail Mr. Pepin thinks it possible to reach Pelly river in three months travel from Edmonton.

NEW GOLD DREDGING SYNDICATE.

South Edmonton Placerdealer.

A new mining company is in process of organization here for the purpose of engaging in dredge mining on the Saskatchewan. The name of the concern is the Victoria-Alberta Gold Dredging Syndicate. Several leading business men have taken stock in the company, having unbounded faith in the future of gold dredging on the Saskatchewan. The syndicate will acquire six five mile leases of the submerged bed of the river of choice location. It will be capitalized for $150,000. Mr. Cowie, the promoter, is in correspondence with some London capitalists and anticipates floating the company with them. One firm is sending a dredging expert to look over the ground. The success of the Star Mining Co., Ltd., this summer and of Mr. Hogue's dredge to date, place Saskatchewan gold dredging out of the realm of speculation and into the realm of safe and profitable business. It is noteworthy that the members of the Star Mining Co., who have had more experience than most others in dredging business, though with inferior machinery, have been the first to invest in this new venture and are the most confident of its success. All that is needed is proper appliances, for the gold is absolutely known to exist in paying quantities. A company with the necessary capital can obtain these appliances and large returns await them.

"THE BRITISH HOUSE OF COMMONS."

The lecture of N. F. Davin, M. P., on "The British House of Commons as I knew it," in Robertson hall on Wednesday evening, was very well attended. The lecture was under the auspices of the Masons of Edmonton. The chair was occupied by Dr. Braithwaite, master of Edmonton lodge. The lecture was listened to attentively throughout, and the lecturer was frequently applauded. It dealt with the era of the disestablishment of the Irish church in the 60's, at a time when Mr. Davin was a reporter in the British House. His characterizations of Gladstone, Desraeli, Bright, Lowe and others of the great lights of that time in British politics were both clever and interesting. A vote of thanks to the lecturer was moved by D. Ross, and heartily carried.

QUALIFICATION OF VOTERS ON BY-LAW.

Section 37 of ordinance 26th, of 1898, amending the municipal ordinance says:

37. Section 231 is repealed and the following substituted:

"Any ratepayer offering to vote on the by-law may be required by the deputy returning officer or by any ratepayer entitled to vote on the by-law to make, before his vote is recorded, the following oath or affirmation, or any part thereof, or to the effect thereof—

"You swear that you are of the full age of twenty-one years; that you are the person named as in the voters' list; that you are a freeholder in your own right (or your wife is a freeholder) of real property within the municipality and rated on the last revised assessment roll as such freeholder for not less than $400; that you have not voted before by the by-law now before the electors; that you have not directly or indirectly received any reward or gift, nor do you expect to receive any, for the vote which you tender; (In the case of an unmarried woman or widow claiming to vote) that you are unmarried (or a widow as the case may be);"

THE CHARITY BALL.

The charity ball which took place on Friday last, the 18th inst., was a great success. In spite of the bad weather and dangerous condition of the river, which no doubt prevented many persons from being present the ladies of the hospital aid are pleased to find that they have realized a substantial sum towards the maintenance of the poor in the hospital this winter. The following is a statement of receipts and expenditure for the charity ball:

Total receipts,	$257.00
Expenses,	53.85
Net,	203.15

The members of the hospital aid profit by this opportunity to thank everyone who assisted in any way at the charity ball, whether by purchase of tickets, donations towards the supper or by personal assistance on the day of the ball; especially Mr. Scott Robertson, also the clerks of the Hudson's Bay Co., and Mr. Shaughnessy, who decorated the ballroom so tastefully.

COAL FAMINE.

Edmonton has experienced a coal famine. The pupils of the public school were dismissed on Monday afternoon as there was no coal on hand to heat the building, and Tuesday and Wednesday for the same reason. Householders experienced the greatest difficulty in getting their orders filled, half a ton at a time being the rule. How such a scarcity could occur in a town actually built over coal mines is hard to understand. The trouble arose in this way. For several winters past the coal business has been overdone; consequently some of the mines were closed. The town had increased greatly in population during the past summer. When the cold snap of last week set in everybody wanted coal, and they wanted it at once. The miners had no calculation for such a great increase of business and were not ready for it. Besides several mines down the river which were worked last winter, and will be worked this winter, could not deliver coal on account of the condition of the river. Sturgeon coal was not brought in because there was not good enough sleighing. Some tons cost $2 50, 50c above the standard price.

LECTURE AND ENTERTAINMENT.

A lecture and musical entertainment was given in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening. The lecture was by Rev. Mr. Ferrier, pastor of the church; "the subject The philosophy of failure," and the object aid to the funds controlled by the church board of management. Frank Oliver, M. P. presided as chair-man. The following is the programme: Opening hymn, "All hail the power of Jesus' name"; Invocation, Rev. C. B. Freeman; Solo, "Ora Nobis" Rev. Galloway; Chairman's address; Quartette, "Sweet and Low" Mrs. Ferrier, Miss Davison, Messrs. Raymer and Galloway; Address by Rev. T. Ferrier; Solo, Mrs. Hookley; Collection; Trio, "The old oaken bucket"; Messrs. Raymer, Goodwin and Galloway; God Save the Queen.

The collection and accompanying subscriptions realized a handsome and satisfactory amount in aid of the church funds.

THE BRIDGE.

A letter from the minister of public works in reply to communication on the subject from the townsmen that the contract for the superstructure of the bridge had not yet been let as the offers received were considered too high. The letter further stated that the minister was endeavoring to secure lower figures, and hoped to be able to write definitely in a week or two.
